Marsha has been a Licensed Clinical Social Worker in residential, inpatient, and outpatient settings, with individuals, groups, and families for over 20 years. Her primary focus has been Chemical Dependency and mood disorders. She has been an active volunteer in self-help support and Twelve Step programs for the past 40 years.

Marsha earned her Masters degree in Social Work at the University of Tennessee and then started working with patients with addictive disorders in a range of in-patient and out-patient settings, as well as five years serving geriatric behavioral health patients. In some positions, Marsha supervised Master level Social Workers towards licensing requirements. She also supervised unlicensed Social Workers and Counselors towards earning licensure.

In Colorado Springs since 2000, Marsha worked with clients seeking recovery in the Intensive Outpatient Program at The Riegel Center at Penrose-St. Francis Health Center for seven years. She also had a private practice downtown. While at The Riegel Center she was aware of the formation of the Harbor House Collaborative and has great enthusiasm for its mission. She is delighted by the progress it has made in serving homeless and addicted people. Marsha is excited to provide supervision at HHC because it gives her an opportunity to share her knowledge and experience with individuals entering Social Work service.
